Step 6:
Create a knot just after the R in the same way as for the first knot. Tighten. Cut off any excess cord.

Step 7:
Thread a ring through the eye next to the name. Add the connecting eye from the carabiner and close the ring.

Step 8:
You can hang anything from the large cord loop. Surround the item with the loop. Thread the carabiner through the top arch of the loop. Move the pendant and tighten the loop.

- clips with with a connecting eye or a small carabiner; an eye pin with a length depending on the number of letters in the name (4x = 34 mm, one letter has a hole length of 6 mm); a 4 mm ring

- a 1 mm wide cord

- scissors; needle-nose pliers; flat-nose pliers (for the ring); a ruler

Difficulty: ●●●●●

Technique: linking, stringing

Procedure:

Step 1:
Thread the individual letters in the name onto the eye pin. The protruding wire should be about 8 - 10 mm long. Grip it between the points of the needle-nose pliers and twist it around the point. Gently bend the created eye next to the edge of the hole so that it is the centre of the hole.
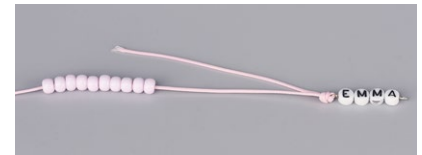

Step 2:
Prepare 40 cm of cord. The cord length will depend on the size of the cord loop (it is 4.5 cm long in the example after completion). If you want it to be bigger, make the cord longer.

Step 3:
Cut the edge of the cord diagonally and thread it through the eye created on the eye pin. The shorter section of the cord will be about 10 cm long. Create a loop from both parts of the cord. Thread the ends of the cord through it and tighten.

Step 4:
String 10x R onto the longer part of the cord. Also thread the shorter part of the cord through the initial 5x R.

Step 5:
Make a small mark on the longer part of the cord about 12 cm behind the R (i.e. using a regular pencil). Thread the cord back through 5x R. Place the mark just in front of the R.
